BECOME A SPONSOR

Every day, environmental, health, and safety professionals work behind the scenes to protect workers, families, and communities, often without recognition, but with lasting impact. The Robertson Scholarship was created to invest in the next generation of these professionals by expanding access to educational opportunities across the country through a partnership with AIHF. Through this initiative, sponsors have the opportunity to do more than give back, they help shape the future of workplace health and safety, support students committed to this field, and be part of a community dedicated to protecting people where they live and work.
